The new economic blueprint for our nation just hit bookstore shelves everywhere. Robert “Bob” Friedman’s new book, A Few Thousand Dollars: Sparking Prosperity for Everyone, stresses the importance of building “nest eggs” to shape prosperous futures for all American families – all without spending an additional dollar or raising the federal deficit. In six compelling chapters, Friedman addresses savings, business, education, home, and prosperity to articulate a vision for making inclusive investments.

About Robert E. Friedman
Friedman is a leading advocate of asset development who helped create the U.S. microenterprise; the savings and asset-building fields, and the international enterprise development and child savings fields. He is founder and Chair Emeritus of Prosperity Now, and currently resides in San Mateo, California.
